

PHYS210 : General Physics I (with lab)

A physics course to fulfill the requirements for various pre-professional programs, introduces linear and rotational mechanics including energy and momentum considerations, thermodynamics, and waves. Includes discussion of the historical development of our understanding along with references to environmental and social impacts of applied technology.

Credits 4

Prerequisites

MATH205 Calculus.